2.3 General Council

The General Council consists of all CSSU Council members that were not elected. Once elected, the Executive Council must announce the availability of General Council positions at least via the official communication channels, and solicit applications from the CSSU membership. Any applicant may be appointed to any General Council position provided that the majority of the Executive Council agrees to the appointment. ## 3 Elections

3.1 Eligibility

3.1.1 Voter Eligibility

Voting privileges shall be awarded to all CSSU members as defined in 1.2, “Membership”. Each eligible voter will receive exactly one vote per issue.

3.1.2 Candidate Eligibility

Any candidate in any election must meet the requirements specified in 1.2, “Membership”.

3.2 Election Classes

3.2.1 Annual Election

An annual election must be held near the end of every Spring semester to determine replacements for the upcoming academic year. The election date will be set at the discretion of the current President, however it must be within four weeks of the conclusion of the Spring semester. The election may not be held during the final week of classes.

3.2.2 By-Election

A by-election will be held when necessary to determine a candidate for a vacant position. The date will be set by the CRO who will be appointed by two-thirds vote of the Council.

3.3 Chief Returning Officer (CRO)

The CRO shall be nominated by the President and appointed by unanimous approval of the existing Executive Council to oversee election proceedings. The CRO shall, at their discretion, with the authority of the President, appoint Council members to aid in the elections. Neither the CRO nor any appointed aides may be candidates in the upcoming election. The CRO will have discretionary powers to interpret and execute the defined election protocols as outlined in chapter 3 of this document. The CRO will have the authority to disqualify any candidate disobeying election protocol. Once appointed, the CRO may only be replaced after a formal request issued by two-thirds of the current Executive Council members.

3.4 Calling of Election

Upon deciding on an appropriate date and successful nomination of a CRO, the President shall publicly declare the election process to have begun. The President should ensure through reasonable means that the community is aware of when and where the election itself is occurring, and confirm the identity of the CRO. This includes, at a minimum, notification through the CSSU external communications channels. The election must take place no earlier than two weeks after the announcement to the official communication channels. In the case of a presidential by-election, the Interim President will perform the aforementioned duties.

3.5 Nomination Period

To become a candidate for an elected position, one must provide a government issued photo ID or Tcard. The CRO may determine the exact format in which these are provided and must retain copies of them for at least and no longer than 3 business days following election day. Nominations may only be made by eligible voters, as laid out in 3.1.1, “Voter Eligibility”. Details of this process shall be determined by the CRO and made publicly available in advance of the nomination period. The CRO may not nominate any candidate. The nomination period must last at least 5 complete business days. During the nomination period, no candidate may engage in campaigning. In the event that only exactly one individual is nominated for a position, excluding Executive Council positions, they do not run in an election, but immediately win the position. They assume their position after the election as specified in 3.10.4 “Transfer of Authority”. In the case of an uncontested Executive Council nomination a yes/no vote will still be held.

3.6 Campaign Period

After the nomination period has ended, the candidates may campaign up to and excluding the Voting Period. Campaign rules will be determined by the CRO and made known in advance of the campaign period. The campaign period must last at least 5 complete business days.

3.7 Voting Period

The CRO will decide, according to University of Toronto’s public health measures, on the format of the election: online or in-person.

If the election is conducted online: The Voting Period will be conducted over a period of multiple days as determined by the CRO. The CRO will procure a fair and reliable means of voting online, with a preference to voting technologies familiar to UofT Students. Each candidate may choose to submit one advertisement to be displayed on the CSSU social media. The size and any other constraints of this advertisement will be determined by the CRO. Candidates shall also submit a written statement to be displayed on the ballot, as long as the statement complies with all rules specified by the CRO and advertised prior to the close of the nominations period. Any volunteers or other parties managing the voting technology must be provided with a list of advance voters who have already submitted their advance vote. They must refuse to allow anyone on the list to vote. The CRO is given the discretion to interpret the constitution in accordance with all Provincial Public Health Guidelines and University policies, as long as such interpretations remain in the spirit of this constitution. The CRO, at their discretion, will notify all candidates and the CSSU General Council of such interpretations. Should a CSSU Council member disagree with this interpretation, they can overrule the CRO by a unanimous vote of General Council and CSSU executive members present at a combined Executive and General Council meeting.

If the election is conducted in-person: The Voting Period must begin and end within the same business day, and must last at least 6 hours. The CRO will select a Voting Area, which must be reserved exclusively for election matters during the Voting Period. Each candidate may choose to submit one 8.5" × 11" advertisement to be displayed within the Voting Area, placed at the CRO's discretion. There must be a secluded area within the Voting Area for each voter to privately complete their ballot. No candidate may attempt to communicate with voters entering or within the Voting Area. A candidate may enter the Voting Area only to complete their ballot, and must leave immediately afterwards. At the CRO's discretion, a candidate may be barred from the Voting Area for the duration of the Voting Period. Any volunteers managing the voting area must be provided with a list of advance voters who have already submitted their advance vote. They must refuse to allow anyone on the list to vote.

3.8 Resolution of Missing Positions

In the event that nobody is nominated for a position, or in the event that a tie results from the final tally of votes, a by-election must be held for the empty position (and any other empty positions) either immediately, if time permits as judged by the CRO, or else during the first month of the next school year (in the Fall semester).

3.9 Advance Voting

Any eligible voter may choose to vote in advance of the voting period. The CRO must provide Advance Voting forms online and advertise them on the CSSU external communication channels before the nomination period begins. Instructions on how to fill out the ballots must also be provided. A voter wishing to cast an advance ballot must provide a completed Advance Voting form to the CRO no less than 48 hours prior to the Voting Period, at which point they will be given a ballot. The voter must return the ballot to the CRO before the start of the Voting Period, folded inside a sealed completely unmarked envelope. Any breach of this protocol may result in the ballot being declared spoiled, at the discretion of the CRO. The CRO should make available their contact information for the purpose of coordinating these transactions. Once the envelope is handed to the CRO, the voter is marked down as an advance voter, and may not amend their vote, and may not vote in person. The CRO must keep all advance ballots in their possession until tabulation takes place. No advance ballot envelope may be opened until tabulation takes place as outlined in 3.10.1, “Tabulation”. The CRO must verify that all persons casting advance ballots are eligible voters as defined in 3.1.1.

3.10 Ballots

Each ballot will contain a list of positions and for each a list of candidates. The candidates will be ordered from top to bottom, sorted in alphabetical order. In the event that there is only one candidate for a position, a Yes/No choice must be provided. A ballot’s vote on a position is considered invalid under the following conditions: More than one choice for the position is selected, or Both “Yes” and “No” are indicated for the position, for a position with only one candidate running, or A marking has been made but it is unclear what choice is being indicated, or No mark has been made for the position. A ballot is not considered spoiled if a vote on a position is invalid. An invalid vote shall be considered to indicate abstinence from a vote on a particular issue. The number of invalid votes for each position should be reported along with the tally of votes for candidates. A vote for a position may be considered invalid at the CRO’s discretion. In addition, an entire ballot may be considered spoiled at the CRO’s discretion. Spoiled ballots will be discarded from the counting process entirely.

3.10.1 Collecting Votes

Voters must register their names, student numbers, and UTOR IDs at a booth run by CSSU volunteers not running for any position. The CSSU must verify that voters are CSSU members to the best of their ability, and must exclude anyone who already submitted an advance ballot. Alternatively, votes may be collected online as opposed to a physical booth.

3.10.2 Tabulation

In the case of a paper voting system: For each vote, a paper ballot must be placed within a sealed box. Immediately following the end of the election period, the tabulation period begins. At this time, the advance ballot envelopes may be opened, and the ballots inside must be placed inside the sealed box. Then the box must be shuffled (i.e. shaken). Only after this may the box be unsealed, and it must be unsealed under the supervision of the CRO. The CRO must keep all completed ballots until they are deemed destroyable as per 3.10.4. In the case of an online voting system: The CRO must ensure that the online votes are only recorded during the designated voting period. They must also ensure that the link to vote is shared on CSSU communications channels as well as on a notice in the CSSU office. Ballot counting must be done under supervision of the CRO. Upon completion, the CRO must provide the current President with election results immediately. The current President must then make the results known publicly within 24 hours.

3.10.3 Recount

Any candidate may demand one recount if there is less than a 10% category. At least one recount must be performed if there is less than a 5%. The CRO must personally perform each recount. If the tabulation changes after a recount, an additional recount must occur. Any current Executive Council member may demand one recount in any category, for any reason, regardless of victory margin.

3.10.4 Finality of Results

After 3 complete business days of election results or the latest recount being made available publicly, no more recounts may be demanded, and the ballots must be destroyed. At this point the election results are final and the CRO is dismissed from duty.

3.10.5 Transfer of Authority

Following an annual election, the outgoing and incoming Executive Councils must arrange a meeting before the end of the first week of summer courses to transfer ownership of the primary bank account, access to assigned space, and any keys. After control of the primary bank account has been transferred to the incoming Executive Council, they are considered the current Executive Council and assigned to their respective roles. The previous Executive Council is thus dismissed from duty. If the transfer of authority is not made by the end of the first week of summer courses, then the incoming Executive Council is still considered to be the current Executive Council, and must make its best effort to gain control over all CSSU resources. Following a complete by-election the winning candidate is immediately considered instated.

3.10.6 Scrutinization of Process

Each candidate may choose to appoint a Scrutineer to oversee election proceedings on their behalf. The candidate must inform the CRO 24 hours before the election period as to their choice of Scrutineer, and provide contact information. The Scrutineer may be present in the Voting Area and during tabulation and any recounts. Should a Scrutineer observe any error or misconduct which will result in corruption of the democratic process, they must immediately make known the specifics of the complaint to the Arts and Science Students' Union. Should a Scrutineer be acting in an obstructive manner to the election procedures they may be barred from the Voting Area at the CRO's discretion. The CRO should immediately inform a member of the current Executive Council, as well as immediately inform the represented candidate that a new Scrutineer will be required. Tabulation must halt until a new Scrutineer is found, or until an hour has passed since the Scrutineer was removed and the candidate is successfully notified. If multiple successive Scrutineers are barred from the Voting Area, then the CRO may, at their discretion, remove the candidate from the election, or remove the candidate's right to a Scrutineer. No candidate in the current election may function as a Scrutineer. Neither the CRO nor any appointed aide to the CRO may serve as a Scrutineer. A single Scrutineer may serve multiple candidates.

4 Impeachment and Replacement

4.1 Resignation

Any Council member is free to resign their position at any time. A resignation will be considered official when the President is notified in writing by the resigning party. If the President is resigning, the Vice-President must be notified in writing.

4.2 Just Cause for Impeachment

Should any Council member fail to meet the duties or requirements of their position, abuse their position for personal reasons, fail to respond to communications within a reasonable time-frame without just cause or otherwise fail to act in good faith, they should be recommended for impeachment by some member of either the community or one of the Councils. Should one Executive Council member agree with the impeachment recommendation, impeachment proceedings will begin.

4.3 Impeachment Proceedings

The President (or Vice-President, if the President is being considered for impeachment) will notify the individual that they are being considered for impeachment, and explain the reasoning. A meeting will be set between the individual and the Executive Council at a reasonable time during which the individual will be questioned. After the Executive's questioning is complete, a vote will be taken in private as to whether the proceedings will continue. Should the individual fail to attend the meeting or refuse to compromise on a meeting schedule, the Executives may vote summarily. If an Executive Council member is being considered for impeachment, they will be allowed to vote in the proceedings. Should at least two-thirds of the Council present at the meeting agree to impeachment, then the individual is considered impeached and dismissed from their position immediately. If the member in question is on the Executive Council then an official announcement must be made on the CSSU communication channels within 24 hours of the vote.

4.4 Replacements

4.4.1 Executive Council Replacements

Executive Council members must be replaced by means of a by-election or by a vote of the general membership at a General Meeting. The procedure for a by-election is laid out in 3.2.2, and the procedure of a General Meeting is as set forth in 5.1, “General Meeting”. If a position on the Executive Council is to be filled by means of a vote of the general membership at a General Meeting, notice of this must accompany the two weeks advance notice of a general meeting outlined in 5.1.1, “Notice”.

In the case of medical or personal emergency, the individual is expected to provide appropriate notice to the Executive Council no later than 24 hours after the intended meeting date.

4.4.2 General Council Replacements

Should any General Council position become vacant, a replacement will be chosen in the manner described in 2.3.

4.4.3 Interim Positions

If a council position’s duties require someone to hold the position immediately, then the President may appoint an interim council member. If there is no President, then the Vice President may do this, and if there is no Vice President nor President, then the Treasurer may do this. An interim council member has all the duties of the position, but must step down immediately when a replacement is chosen by one of the above processes.

5 Miscellaneous

5.1 General Membership Meeting

At least one General Meeting must be held per academic semester, while classes are in session, for each of the Fall and Spring semesters. Any Executive Council member may (unilaterally) call a General Meeting.

5.1.1 Notice

One week advance notice must be given to the student body before the date of a General Meeting. The meeting shall be chaired by the member of the Executive Council who called the meeting.

5.1.2 Protocol

The protocol for General Meetings is as defined in the constitution of the Arts and Science Students' Union.

5.1.3 Quorum

The quorum at all General Meetings shall be 20 members or 20

5.1.4 Motions

Any matter of policy may be put forth to a vote of the general membership at a Council Meeting.

5.2 Amendments

5.2.1 Compliance with the law

At all times, and when it serves the best interests of CSSU members, the CSSU will endeavor to operate in compliance with all Federal, Provincial, and Municipal laws and guidelines (hereafter "the law") and in accordance with University and Departmental policy. At any point, should a member of the General Council identify a clause in this constitution which would require the CSSU to violate the law or University policy, a vote will be conducted on an appropriate amendment to the Constitution to bring the CSSU into compliance with the law. Such a vote requires a vote of at least 50% of the executive council and 50% of the General Council. The amendment will be in effect as of the date of the successful passing in this vote, but the CSSU Executive will be required to call a General Members Meeting at the soonest possible time after and the amendment will be approved through the normal process in clause 5.2.2 In the case of emergency, the CSSU can write temporary amendments to the CSSU constitution that will remain in effect until a predetermined date, before requiring renewal through the process outlined in this clause. Nothing in this clause will permit the CSSU to amend this clause of the constitution.

5.2.2 Changes

Changes to this document shall only be permitted by a two thirds supermajority of the general membership in attendance at a General Meeting (as defined in 5.1, "General Meeting"), and according to the regulations of the Arts and Science Students' Union. An amendment may only be discussed at a General Meeting if it is announced on the agenda, and with unanimous consent among Executive Council members.

5.3 Official Language of Communication

The union adopts English, the University of Toronto's language of instruction, as its official language. All official and unofficial communications on behalf of the union, including but not limited to its constitution, website, advertisements, notices, and campaign materials on behalf of individuals running in a CSSU election, shall be written entirely and exclusively in English.

5.4 Exclusion Rule

No candidate may run for more than one position during a given election. No individual may hold more than one Council position simultaneously. An individual may run in a by-election while currently holding a Council position, however they must resign the previously held position if elected. The previously held position will subsequently be filled in accordance with the procedures laid out in 4.4, “Replacements”.

5.5 Term of Office

Upon the new Executive Council being instated, all previous Council positions are dismissed.
